In this action it is admitted that Germany was largely influenced by the decision of Great Britain not to participate in the exposition.

The Norddeutsche Allgemaine Zeitung, the Government organ, says: Panama-Pacific Exposition was declined by the German Government after inquiry had shown that an over-whelming majority in industrial and business circles in Germany could see no benefit accruing from representation. The Government investigated thoroughly and sympathetically and reached its decision not to participate with the greatest reluctance. "In view of the good political, busi-ness and cultural relations between Germany and the United States and the German desire to cultivate and develop them, the German Government would gladly, as at Chicago and St. Louis, have given the American Government fresh proof of its sympathy and friendamp by acceptance.
